A small scale map (zoom out) is a partial solution as it can show people who are related in distant areas. Social data representation is determined partly by the data type, and partly by the task. For individual data points (see Table 2) the choice is use of colour, shape, and size to code up to three attributes.

Mapping Social Relationships - Psychology

Social mapping is an option to identify households based on predefined indicators relating to socio-economic conditions (e.g. status, skills, property, education, income, etc.). The population's wellbeing is then ranked (by those living there) according to which household is better or worse off in terms of the selected indicators.
